

Ambrogio Intermodal opens a new office in Campogalliano

The company specialized in combined road-rail transport opens a new office in Campogalliano, a strategic logistics hub in the province of Modena, Italy.

Ambrogio Intermodal - a company founded in 1969 and a pioneer of intermodal transport in Europe - is pleased to announce the opening of a new office in Campogalliano, in the province of Modena. This new office represents a significant step in the company's expansion strategy, as it is located in a key logistics hub for connections in Northern Italy.

The Campogalliano office will initially operate as a commercial base, with the primary objective of maximizing customer satisfaction and responding promptly to the ever-increasing transport needs throughout Europe. The presence of this strategic office will allow Ambrogio Intermodal to expand its intermodal network and further develop its Freight Forwarding service, strengthening its international network of partners, including road, maritime and intermodal carriers. The collaboration with the company's headquarters, located in Gallarate (Varese, Italy), will ensure an integrated and optimized management of all operations, providing customers with a fast, complete and tailor-made service.

"We are excited about this new challenge," says Perialberto Vecchi, CEO of Ambrogio Intermodal, "which marks another important milestone after the opening of our new intermodal terminal in Domegliara (Verona, Italy) in June last year. The opening of the new office in Campogalliano represents a tangible commitment to our customers to continue to expand our offer, our presence on the field, and offer the highest level of service."

Ambrogio Intermodal continues to invest in its infrastructure and operations to guarantee high-quality services and innovative logistics solutions. In Italy, the company is already present in Piedmont (Candiolo), in Lombardy (Gallarate) and in Veneto (Domegliara). The opening of the new office in Emilia-Romagna, in Campogalliano, is a step towards expansion and continuous improvement, consolidating the company's presence as a trusted logistics partner for companies both nationally and internationally.
